Dear Colleague,

With this letter I would like to inform you that the Dutch House of Representatives has decided to propose Mr Jos van de Wiel for the post of permanent member of the COSAC Secretariat.

Let me first of all offer you my sincere apologies for sending you this nomination in such a late stage. As a result of internal procedural delays, we were not able to finish the formal decision process by the Presidium of the House of Representatives in time to meet the deadline, which we also tried to explain in our previous letter to you. Although I am fully aware that the deadline of nominating candidates has expired, I would on behalf of the Dutch House of Representatives kindly request you to still allow our candidate to participate in the selection procedure. I herewith attach Mr Jos van de Wiel's curriculum vitae and his motivation letter.

I firmly believe Jos van de Wiel is an excellent candidate to successfully support the COSAC Presidency and the other Members of its Secretariat in the upcoming period. One of the key issues for us parliamentarians today is the discussion on the strengthening of the democratic legitimacy of the European Union, and the role national parliaments play here. COSAC can play a vital role in this discussion, as the key platform for ideas and meeting venue for interparliamentary cooperation.

Jos van de Wiel is a committed, enthusiastic and experienced professional who has worked in several positions in the area of international politics over the past eight years. He has worked as the assistant to the Permanent Representative of the Dutch Parliament at the EU in Brussels, after which he became deputy clerk for several parliamentary committees in the Dutch House of Representatives. He was secretary of the Benelux Assembly's committee on sustainability and territorially bound issues. He has organized an Interparliamentary Conference on improving national accountability of EU-funds and has been active in several interparliamentary EU and OECD conferences.

re. Appointment of Permanent Member of COSAC Secretariat

In his function with the recent Inquiry Committee on the Financial System, Jos van de Wiel proved to have excellent analytical skills that enable him to assess information swiftly and accurately and reproduce it in a concise and accessible report.

I am confident that his experience and skills make Jos van de Wiel a very well suited candidate for the post of permanent member of the COSAC Secretariat. I therefore sincerely hope that you, as Chairman of the COSAC, will be willing to include his candidacy in the selection procedure.

If more information is needed, I will by all means be ready to provide it to you. Mr René Leegte, deputy chair of the European Affairs Committee in the Dutch House of Representatives and head of delegation at the next COSAC-meeting, will arrive in Vilnius on Sunday morning 27 October and will be more than willing to give more information before the meeting of the Presidential Troika of COSAC.

Thank you very much for your reply in advance.

Yours sincerely,

Raymond Knops

Dear Chairman,

During the coming L COSAC Meeting in the Seimas of the Republic of Lithuania in Vilnius the Chairpersons of COSAC will appoint the Permanent Member of the COSAC Secretariat. With this letter I would like to inform you about my application for this post.

Since six years I have been working as deputy clerk for the Dutch House of Representatives. In this period I proved to be a versatile advisor who is proactive, understands administrative relations and has political sensitivity. These are qualities of great importance in parliamentary affairs, both at the national and the EU-level.

With my experience in the day-to-day environment of parliament and politics, I am convinced that it is of great importance to not only focus on the national and European level, but also to make the interconnections between those two work in practice. The EU provides a unique platform where common goals can be set and achieved, also – and ever more often so - by national parliaments.

I believe that strengthening interparliamentary relations in the EU is key to making our new competences work. This believe comes from, amongst others, my experience with the EU and in Brussels, as the assistant of the Permanent Representative to the EU of the Dutch Parliament. Also I have been involved in several interparliamentary conferences and I know that these venues – if organised efficiently and with great care – can be essential for information exchange and building and fostering personal contacts and networks between our EU parliaments. For example: in 2010 I organised an IPC on Improving National accountability of EU funds. A conference paper was one of the results of this conference, it was sent to amongst others, COSAC. Besides this conference I regularly support members of Parliament when participating in IPC's in other EU member states and of the OECD.

In addition to my experience at the EU level, the knowledge and expertise I obtained working at the national level demonstrate my skills and abilities to successfully operate at the post of permanent member of the COSAC secretariat. As follows from my Curriculum Vitae I have had different positions during these last years. In all my past professional positions I showed that I am flexible, open minded, fast learning and innovative and will deliver results.

To the COSAC Secretariat I can bring my personal experience with the interconnection between national parliaments, the EP and their interplay. I know what MP's want, what drives them and how we can make them co-operate in venues which offer both political appeal and substantial discussions. I am convinced that I am a perfect candidate for the post of permanent member of the COSAC secretariat and look forward to contribute to the central goal of COSAC: to strengthen the role of national Parliaments by connecting Members of Parliament and staff in challenging times for the European Union and its member states.

Yours Sincerely,
Jos van de Wiel
